AXIS FORCES FLEE ZUARA, WEST OF TRIPOLI, UNDER A HAIL OF ALLIED BOMBS; 8TH ARMY MOVES WESTWARD

Rommel's Columns, Retreating Into Tunisia, Hotly Pursued—Squadrons of Allied Fighter-Bombers Lash Out at Axis Shipping Attempting to Put to Sea.

CAIRO, Jan. 25.—(INS)—The Axis fled today from the small port of Zuara, 65 miles west of captured Tripoli, under a hail of Allied bombs and machine-gun fire as Britain's victorious Eighth Army continued to move westward in swift pursuit of Nazi General Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's columns retreating into Tunisia.

Squadrons of Allied fighter-bombers lashed out repeatedly at Axis shipping attempting to put to sea from Zuara as advanced units of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's mechanized spearhead was reported nearing the port, only 35 miles from the Tunisian frontier.

It was not immediately clear whether the Axis ships were evacuating troops in addition to war materials.

An official communiqué from headquarters of Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, Middle East commander, reported that the Eighth Army was

Continue Search For Missing Navy Transport

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25.—(INS)—A round-the-clock search for a four-motored Navy transport plane, bearing a Rear Admiral, nine other naval officers and a crew of nine, turned to the rugged country 75 miles north of San Francisco today on the first tangible clues since the giant craft disappeared last Thursday morning.

The plane, which left Honolulu Wednesday, reached San Francisco early Thursday and circled the bay area vainly for some time, unable to land because of adverse conditions.

Reports from ranchers and civilian aircraft spotters in the sparsely settled mountain area at the juncture of Sonoma, Mendocino and Lake counties, said "an unusually large airplane" was both seen and heard there early Thursday morning.

These were coupled with a grim statement from Mr. and Mrs. Warner F. Young, who live northeast of Healdsburg, that they heard what they now believe to have been the sound of a plane crashing and exploding that morning in the dark hours before dawn.

This report was at variance, however, with one from Charles Adams, operator of a ranch 14 miles east of Cloverdale. Adams said he definitely saw a giant airplane "a little after 7 o'clock Thursday morning—when it was just getting light."

"The plane circled twice over my ranch," Adams said. "It was the biggest plane I ever saw. When last I saw it, it was headed for the general direction of Clear Lake."

Clear Lake, north of Adams' ranch, lies in a direct air line with the ranch and San Francisco. It has been used by the Pacific Clipper planes as a secondary landing base on occasion when the regular base was not available.

A search of the Clear Lake area, however, failed to uncover any sign of the missing plane. Navy authorities withheld official comment on all reports that the plane had been sighted.

One of the 19 persons aboard the plane was Rear Admiral R. H. English, commander of U. S. submarines in the Pacific. Another was a navy nurse, only woman passenger. Three were navy captains, three commanders and two lieutenants. The other nine aboard were the Clipper's civilian crew members.

AN INTERESTING LETTER

The Rev. Paul Wesley Bare, a former pastor of Harriman Methodist Church, and who is now serving as a chaplain with U. S. Army forces in North Africa, states in a letter to his wife in Philadelphia that many of the American soldiers are actually praising the Lord and passing the ammunition.

The Rev. Bare, who is known to many in Bucks County, having served churches at Crofton and Yardley, as well as in this borough, writes as follows:

"For the first time in a couple of years the men are asking me to conduct services." Before he went overseas the clergyman, now Major Bare, was stationed at Morris Field, Charlotte, N. C.

Ye Good Olde "Shanks Mare"

(By "The Stroller")

The reason advanced by John Leslie Kilcoyne, Esq., for his long morning walk from his Edgely home to his Bath street office is that the exercise and fresh air are a boon to health—but he admits it's rather hard on the pedal extremities.

At the same time that he is improving his physique Mr. Kilcoyne is helping the government to save on gasoline.

We've never "clocked" it, but it is a good three miles from the Kilcoyne home on Bristol Pike, Edgely, to Bristol post office where he stops for the mail, and then to his office on Bath street.

"Les" has been doing this daily for several months, and is growing more enthusiastic daily over his hike.

Governor Martin To Present 14-Point Program

By John Paget

HARRISBURG, Jan. 25.—(INS)—Apparently satisfied with existing wartime measures, Gov. Edward Martin today polished his post-war improvement program which the Legislature will be asked to adopt before the end of the 1943 session.

The Governor will present the 14-point plan to a joint session of the General Assembly tomorrow at 12:15 p. m. The address will be broadcast.

The program will probably not be rushed through the Legislature as standing committee chairmen are expected to follow normal procedure on major legislation and ask for public hearings on every phase of the Governor's proposals. Recommendations received from witnesses will be considered before the final draft is submitted for approval.

A measure introduced by Rep. Robert D. Fleming, (R) Allegheny, was expected to provide the framework for the reconstruction program. It calls for the appointment of a 15-member commission to supervise the post-war plan.

The proposal, which has been given the stamp of approval by the leaders of the Republican-dominated Legislature, directs the commission to draft a long-range public works program to "reduce and eliminate as much as possible the destructive economic dislocations of the post-war period."

Governor Martin has not disclosed the exact recommendations he will submit to the legislators but it was believed he would follow the broad proposals of the Fleming bill which covered flood control, highway reconstruction, veterans' bonus, social disease control, extension of vocational education, slum clearance, anti-stream pollution and business readjustment to peace-time production.

CONSIDER HARVESTING METHODS FOR CORN

Middletown Grange Members Have Profitable Discussion

H. HESTON PRESIDES

LANGHORNE, Jan. 25.—When Middletown Grange members met in the Memorial House last week they compared modern and old methods of harvesting corn. There were several participants in the discussion, and members pointed out that with the more recent methods the corn can be harvested in a shorter time. Several of the persons said the mechanical husker may not do as clean a job because sometimes the silk and husks are left on the ears. The fodder, it was pointed out also, is broken more if the corn is harvested by the modern method. It was stated, however, this is not lost because it may be used as bedding.

During the lecture's hour, which was in charge of Mrs. Leslie Kirk, the members responded to roll call by telling what types of programs they

LATEST NEWS BULLETINS

Enemy Advance in Ousseltia Valley

Allied Headquarters in North Africa—The enemy advances in the Ousseltia Valley of central Tunisia has been halted by Allied patrols, an official communiqué said today.

American troops raided Maknassi, 50 miles east of Gafsa, taking 80 prisoners. An additional 50 enemy troops were captured by the British in the same sector.

Allied planes carried out many fighter sweeps over enemy positions on Saturday night in support of ground forces, the communiqué said, while bombers attacked the docks at Bizerte and vehicles on the road east of Kairouan.

Yesterday the harbor of Sousse and a small town near Medenine in the March Line were bombed with good results. A small formation of enemy fighter planes which attacked the Allied bombers was destroyed.

German Press and Radio Pessimistic

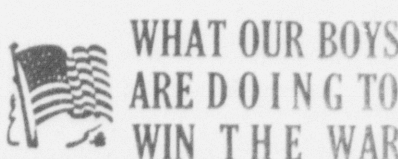

London—The German press and radio sank to a new low of depression today, but Premier Mussolini was still in there pitching.

The Rome radio this afternoon said: "We are not downhearted. We are going to see it through to the bitter end. 'A battle is on and we are in it. The blacker the horizon, the greater our stubbornness to stick to it.'"

Germans Admit Evacuation of Voronezh

London—The German High Command in a special communiqué today finally admitted evacuation of Voronezh, strategic Don River city from which one of the successful Russian counter-offensives toward Stalingrad and the Caucasus was launched some weeks ago.

(Editor's note: The German "blitz" against Stalingrad and the Caucasus was broken by the Soviet armies at Voronezh last August, but the Nazi High Command stubbornly refused to concede its failure to capture the city and always referred to Russian action there as attempts to re-take it.)

MAXWELL, FIELD, Ala., Jan. 25.—George M. Monus, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Monus, Sr., of 1015 Chestnut street, Bristol, Pa., is now enrolled as an aviation cadet in the Army Air Forces Pre-Flight School for Pilots at Maxwell Field, located on the outskirts of Montgomery, the capital of Alabama.

Here the new class of cadets will receive nine weeks of intensive military, physical and academic training preparatory to beginning their actual flight instruction at one of the many primary flying schools in the Southeast Army Air Forces Training Center.

IMPENDING AIR WAR

American supplies and men are constantly pouring into North Africa and the British are adding what reserves they can (especially surface warships and submarines) to the Eisenhower command. After the land war is over, the air-sea war of the Mediterranean will commence.
Every point in Italy, Greece and the Mediterranean islands will be within range of American B-24's and Flying Fortresses. Moreover, Austria, Rumania and other Balkan countries will be vulnerable. What the American air force can not bomb from North Africa, the RAF can handle from Egypt and the Near East, or Russia can attack.

The great town-blasting night raids will continue to come from England, where there are constantly replenished bomber groups and ammunition factories. The assignment of the African bombers will be to knock out key industries, ship concentrations and enemy warships.

Thus the Italian fleet, bombed months ago at Taranto and more recently at Naples, is doomed. So are Italian factories and, in time, the Rumanian oil fields. The Germans know this, and they are abandoning Italy to her fate as a temporary harbor to the American-British southern front.

The raids will be constant but scattered. Germany can not possibly build and man enough anti-aircraft guns to stop this new attack. Refueling fields are being built at intervals of 100 miles throughout North Africa, Egypt and Libya. Main bases are being constructed at the several well-protected harbors along the south shore of the Mediterranean.

These bases can be supplied with relative ease as Allied mastery of the Mediterranean grows more predominant. The direct route from the United States or England to any Mediterranean point is 8,000 miles shorter than around the Cape of Good Hope. Plans are also being made to supply Russia through the Mediterranean.

The Germans, moreover, have yet to feel the full power of the United States.

MEET THE COXWENS

More Americans are familiar today with the U. S. Navy's traditional method of naming warships than was the case before the war. Battleships are named for states, cruisers for cities and towns, destroyers for Navy heroes, and submarines for fish.

But the tradition is not so hard and fast when it comes to naming aircraft carriers. Two the Wasp and Hornet, were named for insects with stings. The names of three others—the Ranger, Enterprise and Independence—are self-explanatory. And still others were named for American military victories.

These include the Lexington, the Saratoga, the Princeton, the Belleau Wood, the Yorktown and the newest one, the Cowpens. And there are probably quite a few Americans who will not immediately recall the battle of Cowpens.

Cowpens is a town in the northern part of South Carolina, so named because in Colonial days cattle were rounded up and branded there. The battle was fought between American forces under Col. Daniel Morgan and a superior number of British troops under Col. Banastre Tarleton. The Americans lost 72 killed and wounded. The British lost 300 killed and wounded and 450 prisoners.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By Courier Staff Member

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Apr. 14, 1881. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

The property of the Misses Peirce on Radcliffe street, formerly used by them as a boarding school, has been sold to Capt. J. Cone, A. Ralph and William H. Grundy, for $9,000, who purchased it to rent to Miss Merriam for a day and boarding school. The property is admirably calculated for school purposes, and under Miss Merriam's well-known efficient management, Bristol will have a school for the education of misses and young ladies of superior merit. The building will comfortably accommodate about 10 boarders.

The building of the new paper mill will be commenced as soon as the plans and specifications for its erection are received, which will probably be in a week or 10 days. The machinery for the mill has to be made to order, as it is not kept in stock, and will cost between $30,000 and $40,000. It will be of the best make and embody the latest improvements, which we understand are of considerable importance.

A small army of tramps is at present encamped in Bristol. Squads of them may be seen around the mills and along the railroad.

There are but few unemployed men residing in Bristol. The mills generally have put on additional help and the section forces on the railroad have been nearly doubled.

The Lehigh canal will not be open before the 25th inst., and coal will not be shipped from Mauch Chunk before the 1st of May.

Two vessel loads of brick have been unloaded at Joseph Peirce's wharf, allowing that a busy building season is anticipated.

Joseph Peirce has purchased the farm on the new State Road, generally known as the St. Clair farm.

Quite a lot of tobacco has been sold in the Manor, at prices ranging from nine to 12 cents per pound, according to quality.

The bill providing for the annexation of Ryberty and Moreland to Bucks County was before the State Senate yesterday and discussed on third reading by Senators Grady, Norris, Seyburn and Smith, in opposition; and by Senator Thomas in advocacy of the bill, but before any final action was taken the measure was postponed for the present.

The ground for the use of the Tullytown Creamery has been purchased from Amos Headley. It is located on the River road, in Falls Township, close to Headley's mill. The building is to be of frame, the dimensions 44 by 46 feet, and is to be built of the best material. Nearly 400 shares of stock have been already subscribed. The officers of the company are:

President, John Burton; treasurer, Amos Headley; secretary, H. J. Shoemaker; directors, Joab Mershon, Thomas Eastburn, Joseph S. Hibbs, John H. Wright and Isaac Tyson.

The steamboat "Bristol" will commence her towing next week. The prospects are that the traffic on the canal will be better than it has been for several years.

Some parties were at Tullytown on Saturday last, looking for a location for a brass foundry.

It is rumored that a stocking factory will be started at Halmesville.

The Great Game of Politics

backing. The reaction is likely to be damaging to both.

THE TRUTH is that, in time, money and materials, the loss to the nation through this CIO-White House combination has been incalculable. Before Pearl Harbor, strikes were epidemic and nationwide. Since Pearl Harbor, they have decreased but by no means ceased. Strikes, slowdowns, walkouts and wage demands still occur, impeding vital war production and throwing the war plants out of their stride. Testimony to this effect has been given by officials of the Administration like Admiral Land, of the Shipping Board, and others. Actually, there isn't an open-minded man in Washington who privately disputes the facts. Yet, none of this loosens the link between the labor leaders and the White House nor diminishes the tolerance of the latter for the former.

THIS COMBINATION PAID politically for a good many years but it has been carried too far now. What was once an admitted asset seems steadily becoming a liability. Some of the New Dealers, grasping the facts, are anxious that the President take occasion to act in a way that will show complete freedom from labor-leader dominance and demonstrate that these professionals no longer enjoy particular White House favor. There have been many occasions when this could have been done greatly to the benefit of the national interest and to the war effort.

THERE IS opportunity now, when the manpower problem is so acute and the shortage of labor so alarming. All the President has to do to solve this problem is to let it be known that he no longer opposes the extension of the forty-hour week for the duration of the war. He does not have to advocate it; all he need do is make it clear that he will no longer block it. It would be good politics for him to do that as well as sound national policy. But not many think he will. The tieup is too tight and his commitments too complete.

THE CIO leaders meet the resolutions of the farm organizations and the attitude of the people by making ebullient patriotic speeches, telling how noble and unselfish they are. The New Deal aides meet them with the old-time demagoguery against the National Association of Manufacturers, and by citing the few instances of industrialists who have been guilty of fraudulent practices. The extreme radicals meet them by insistence upon further labor advances. Notwithstanding all this, the patience of the public with the labor favoritism of the Administration wears thinner all the time. Each threatened strike imposes an additional strain. It will be surprising if at this session public feeling is not reflected in labor regulation which the White House will be unable to smother, as it always has done before.

When Miss Laura Grace Downing made her way to the altar of Calvary Baptist Church on Saturday afternoon to become the bride of Apprentice Seaman Robert T. Weik, of the U. S. Coast Guards, she was escorted by her brother, Mr. William M. Downing, Bath street.

Attendants of the bride were inclusive of her sister, Mrs. Paul Vandegrift, Washington street, matron of honor; Miss Evelyn DenBleyker, McKinley street, maid of honor; Miss Vera Tomlinson, Walnut street, bridesmaid; and Judith Ann Vandegrift, a niece of the bride, as flower girl.

The Rev. Lehman Strauss was the officiating clergyman. The groom was attended by Mr. Elwood Dyer, Jr., Washington street, and ushers were Messrs. Ronald Argus, Washington street, and Walter Tomlinson, Walnut street.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. William M. Downing, 211 Washington street, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Weik, 200 Mill street. The ceremony took place at four o'clock.

Mrs. Jackson Bauer, Croydon, was organist; and selections sung by Mrs. Charles Thompson, Bath street, were "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," "O Promise Me," "Savior Like a Shepherd Lead Us," and "At Dawning."

The costume of the bride included a gown of white satin, with sweetheart neckline and yoke of net. The sweeping train was edged with lace, and lace trim appeared at the neck of the gown. The bodice was gathered, and the sleeves were long. Her fingertip veil of tulle was held in place by a tiara of brilliants. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses.

The costumes of the three attendants of the bride were patterned alike. Mrs. Vandegrift wore pink and carried roses of a matching shade; Miss DenBleyker wore blue and carried talisman roses; and Miss Tomlinson wore yellow and carried yellow roses. The gowns were of taffeta and were cut floor-length. Sweetheart necklines topped gathered bodices, and short sleeves were puffed. Tiny bows trimmed the bodices, and a ruffle enhanced the skirt of each gown. Their tiaras of net matched their individual gowns, and to these were fastened face veils. Slippers were of silver. The flower girl had a floor-length costume of pink taffeta, the front of the bodice being gathered and bow-trimmed. Her tiara was made of flowers, and she carried a bouquet made up of pink roses. Her slippers were white.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)
Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

We thank Thee, O Father, for another week which thou hast given unto us; a week which will be filled with glorious opportunity and with tremendous challenge. So bless us with thy presence that we might accept the challenges and meet them to thy glory. Let us overcome the temptations which shall face us, that we might return our time unto thee without spot, even as it was given unto us. Through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen.

Approximately 100 guests were entertained at the reception held in I. O. O. F. hall. For a week-end journey to New York City the former Miss Downing wore a green print dress with accessories of luggage tan.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

The exciting 1880's and the colorful Gay Nineties furnish the background for the Grand Theatre's current attraction, "Gentleman Jim," which starts its local engagement today. Errol Flynn and Alexis Smith are co-starred in the Warner Bros. picturization of the life of James J. Corbett.

Climaxing the picture is the reenactment of the now classic bout between Corbett and John L. Sullivan for the heavyweight championship of the world on September 7, 1892, in New Orleans. Here Corbett, fighting a scientific bout, was able to knock out the slow, slugging Sullivan in the 21st round.

BRISTOL THEATRE

Streamlined to match the tempo of the times, one of America's most beloved tales, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," has been brought to the screen with Fay Bainter, Hugh Herbert, Carolyn Lee and Vera Vague in the leading roles. The film will open today at the Bristol Theatre.

Employment

A look at the Associations' Stockholders over a period of years tells us just who are the thrifty people, the saving people, the workers who are determined to save some of the money they earn.

This survey shows clearly that the real thrifty man or woman is nearly always employed, seldom out of work and always well regarded by his or her employer and Associates.

There are lots of spenders, good fellows with a string of followers, always ready to help consume a friend's wages. They are the ones who lose their employment first and are the last to get another job.

WED. & THURS.—Jack BENNY, Ann SHERIDAN in "GEORGE WASHINGTON SLEPT HERE"

FARRUGGIO QUINTET WILL ATTEMPT TO PUT DENT IN LEAD OF DIAMOND TEAM WHEN THEY CLASH TONIGHT

The Farruggio basketball quintet will attempt to make a dent in the lead of the Diamond team when they clash tonight in the second game scheduled on the Mutual Aid floor. Rohm & Haas meets Fleetwings in the first game, while the final tilt of the night will pit the Hunter five against Voltz-Texaco. First game starts at 7:30 o'clock.

Diamond has eight straight wins to its credit and is undefeated. Farruggio in second place has a standing of five and three. The last time these teams met, the contest was close and interesting and only a last quarter rally gave Diamond the victory.

Despite the deadline for the signing of players, both managers, DeRisi, of Farruggio, and Nichols, of Diamond, have practically signed their same lineups. Nichols has signed George Derrick, of Yardley, who he will use in the event "Bill" Balon gets his call to the Navy.

Manager Walt Colbert is anxious for his club to break back into the win column with several victories instead of getting them in dribs. The Fleetwings lost an interesting match with Farruggio last Monday night, it being the fifth loss of the season for the aircraft workers. Tonight, a triumph will put them in a deadlock with Rohm & Haas for third place.

The battle to vacate the cellar of the circuit is listed for the finale when Hunter's meets Voltz-Texaco. These two teams, although both have strong lineups, have run into tough luck all season and both have won two games while losing six.

Manager Ray Pieo will start his same lineup of Palumbo, Barbetta, Caro, Ashton and Carter, while George Dougherty's starting team will most likely be composed of Cooper, Brown, Hutchinson, Hopkins and Bucknum.

DART LEAGUE TO END THE FIRST-HALF SOON

With several teams in the running for the championship, the Bristol Dart League is well under way and the first half is expected to close soon. The main game scheduled for this week is for tomorrow night when Lodge's plays Keller's.

These teams are traditional dart rivals and their rivalry carries over from last season when Lodge's boys nosed out the Keller team in both halves to win the championship.

The schedule is as follows:

BRISTOL BOY NOW IN MARINES BOXES WITH SERVICE MEN

Carmine Orrino Puts Up Good Showing in Roped Arena

TAKES ON CORPORAL Fights A Three-Round Draw With Marine From Wisconsin

A Bristol boy who formerly fought as an amateur boxer in St. Ann's A. A. arena here is entertaining his fellow Marines by taking part in exhibition bouts somewhere in the South Pacific theatre of war.

He is Carmine Orrino, a private in the Marines, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Orrino, 913 Garden street. Orrino, known for his heavy slugging in the St. Ann's bouts, fought under the colors of the Seibolds and is remembered especially for his three bouts with Tony "Blondy" Biancosino. Biancosino is now a private in the army.

According to a dispatch sent by Sgt. Jack Walsh, USMC, former sports writer who is now a combat reporter, Orrino fought a three-round draw with Corporal Charles Alakson, Stevens Point, Wis.

Walsh also mentions the fact that Orrino is but 19 years of age and won six pro fights in Philadelphia and Trenton. He also mentioned that all the bouts on the eight-card schedule were three-rounders which was plenty in the climate they are having.

Answer To Troubles Of World: Tolerance

Before the members took part in the discussion Mrs. Mohr made a few introductory remarks, and in this connection said the League of Nations is not dead and that the economic section of the League is functioning with headquarters at Princeton University.

The economic and political phases were discussed by Mrs. Henry Taggart, who said these are so closely allied that it is hard to designate between the two. She pointed out that proposals for peace that do not rest upon economic grounds and that do not grapple with the problems of labor and capital can be neither realistic nor successful.

Racial problems were considered by Mrs. Reuben P. Keister, who said the problem of race in the world today is not based on actual biological differences, but is a part of the larger problems of social attitude of dominant groups. The rights and liberties of racial and other minority groups, said Mrs. Keister, must be recognized and guarded in all lands in order to have a lasting peace.

Mrs. George A. Walton spoke of the religious aspect. She said the churches are being asked whether they will be united. Only the church, said Mrs. Walton, can teach "Who is Thy Neighbor?" Continuing, Mrs. Walton said: "We must study and work together and we must have perfect fellowship and forget our differences. We will then have the first fruits of that better church which is to come."

Summing up the discussions, Mrs. Mohr said: "The key to the situation is a theme of tolerance. Each nation must give up something. Security is one of the things for which we must work in the post war world."

half mile from the place where the officers were sleeping. I told them that we were going to conduct a religious service and there was no compulsion. If anyone wanted to go to his tent it was O. K. by me, and no damage done. A couple of fellows walked away and after a few minutes they came back with some stragglers that they had gotten out of the tents.

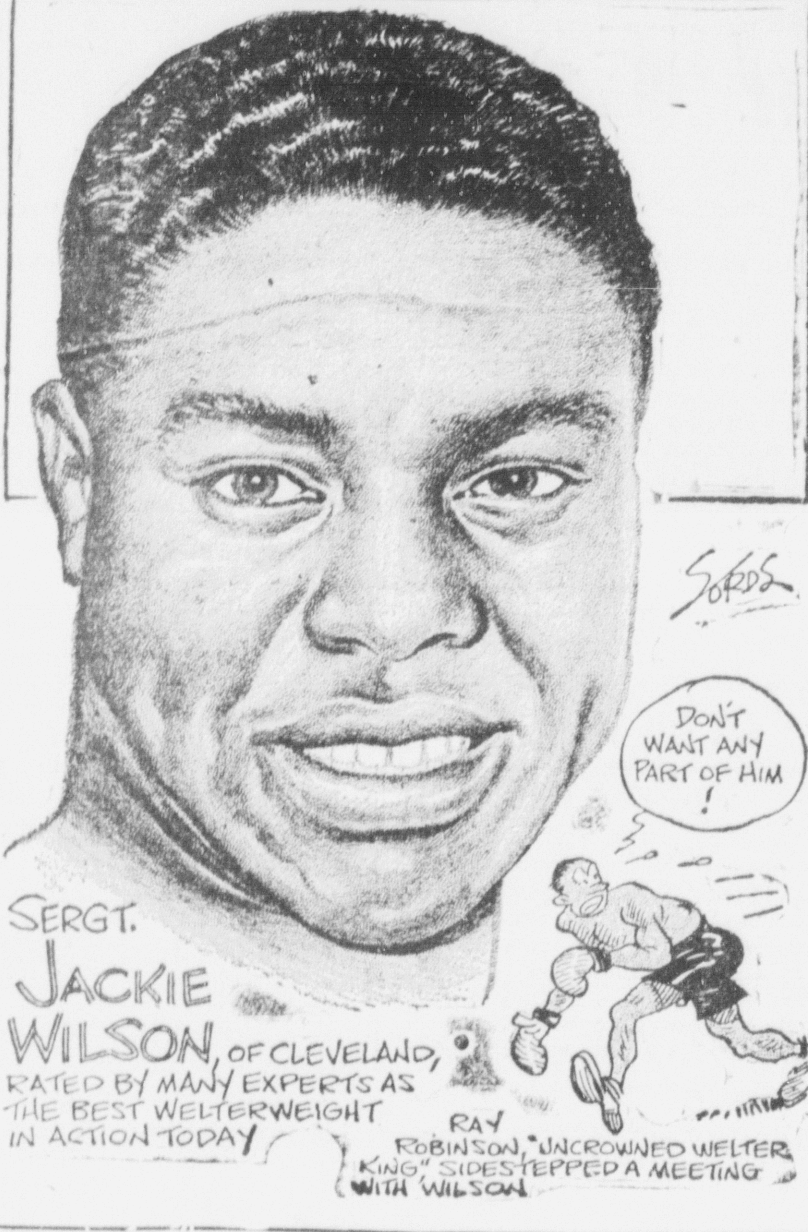

"The service was only 29 minutes long, but it went over in great style. In the evening they were still camping at the same place. They told me they were going to have a camp fire and invited me over. When I went, a couple of Catholic sergeants came up to me and asked me if I would read the Gospel and the Epistle for the day. I said a little prayer and said anything I thought ought to be said about God."

more than 40 of the 48 states during the two years she has been in this country.

A service flag, representing 206 boys who attended or graduated from Doylestown high school and who are now in the service, was dedicated on Thursday. Appropriate services for the presentation were held during the senior high auditorium program. The flag has two gold stars, representing Marion Zackiewicz and Charles Meyers, both of whom were killed in action.

Names will be added from month to month, as the need arises, by the Service Club, which, sponsored by Miss Priscilla Swartley, keeps in touch with all the boys now in service by sending them cards. The idea of the service flag was originally started by the Students of the Black Sea.

SERGEANT PAT OF RADIO PATROL

By EDDIE SULLIVAN and CHARLIE SCHMIDT

There was no let up in the relentless offensive drives by the Soviets throughout the southern battle area where the Germans are steadily falling back on Rostov and the Ukraine steel center of Kharkov.

The magnitude of the Russian action remained unmatched in any other war theatre but an equally important battle was shaping up in North Africa as the campaign there merged into a single engagement with the retirement of the Afrika Korps from Libya into Tunisia.

The British Eighth Army after taking Tripoli was moving rapidly westward toward the Tunisian frontier in pursuit of Nazi General Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's retreating forces and one Allied staff officer said it was likely British reconnaissance units already had crossed over into Tunisia.

To the west of Rommel and other Axis forces in northeast Tunisia British, American and French forces continued to skirmish with German mechanized units and Allied fliers, paced by the United States Air Force, hammered at enemy strong points.

In Russia, the victory-inspired advance of the Red Army across the northern Caucasus threatened to trap more than 20 Nazi divisions still battling desperately against Soviet units to the south. Battering assaults on the Voronezh front by Russian columns driving on the Ukrainian centers of Kharkov and Kursk have rolled the German line back almost to the point where the Nazis began their offensive on Stalingrad last July.

Latest successes of the Russian Army plunging along the Stalingrad-Krasnodar Railway included the capture of Peschanokopskoe, 50 miles northeast of the important rail junction of Tikhoretsk, where the Stalingrad line crosses the Rostov-Baku railroad.

Meanwhile, Axis forces in northern Tunisia fought to keep open a corridor for Rommel's troops to join with Col. Gen. Von Arnim's estimated 70,000 men defending the Tunis-Bizerte arc. Allied North Africa headquarters said Axis units had occupied the hills of Djebel Bou Dahab, on the east side of the Ousseltia Valley.

Allied airmen struck crippling blows at Axis installations and positions throughout the battle area and shot down 19 German fighters, at no loss to themselves, in a fierce dogfight over the enemy naval base at Bizerte.

Britain-based warplanes, the Nazis said, continued the round-the-clock offensive against enemy-held Europe with another shattering raid on the rich industrial valley of the Ruhr, Western Germany, during the night. Targets in Western France also were blasted by the night-flying bombers of the RAF, according to the Germans.

In the Southwest Pacific, Allied airmen lent weight to his prediction that air power, rightly used, would lead to victory by carrying out a series of crippling raids on Jap installations throughout the area.

All the way from Timor in the west to the Solomon sea in the east, Allied airmen shattered airdromes, shipping and enemy installations in an offensive sweep highlighted by another damaging raid on Rabaul's airdromes, on New Britain. The Huon Gulf area of New Guinea also was raked by bombers and fighters of the southwest Pacific air command, which MacArthur credited with having much to do with the successful outcome of the Papuan campaign.

MacArthur predicted that new offensive tactics, based on experience gained in Papua where air, ground and naval forces co-operated to crush Nippon's army of 15,000 men, would eliminate "island-by-island" advances in favor of swift, massive strokes against the enemy.

Farther to the west, RAF bombers based in India battered the Jap airdrome at Shwebo, 45 miles northwest of Mandalay, Burma, and attacked villages in Akyab Island, in the Bay of Bengal.

COMMUNICATION

To a former classmate of mine I write:—

TO "SCHELLY",
The sons of common men
Who live their lives, content
To know that all is well,
Are simply men.
But those whose souls
Are fiery, burning, intent
To diffuse a languid spell
Are of another strain—
As was the Boy in Khaki.
Who stroved for a higher goal,
And fought to erase a menace
To his countrymen.
Who fought with all his heart
With that same fiery, burning soul
That prayed to God for Peace—
Yet he died—The Valiant.
